Welcome

Hello from Ilkley

We've been designing and fitting furniture from our base in Ilkley for over 30 years. Fitted wardrobes, dressing rooms, media walls, home offices and kitchens, more than 2,000 projects so far.

No two rooms are the same. Sloping ceilings, walls that aren't quite straight, the chimney breast nobody knows what to do with. Working round all that is the part we enjoy.

This brochure shows some of our recent work and how we'd go about yours. If something catches your eye, give us a ring or book a design visit and we'll come and have a look.

Fitted wardrobes

Every inch, used

Wardrobes in Avola grey, cut to follow a sloping ceiling

Built for the room you've actually got

Most bedrooms aren't a perfect box. Off-the-shelf wardrobes leave gaps down the sides, wasted corners and a dusty space on top. Ours are made to measure, so they go right up to the ceiling and right into the corners.

Sloping ceilings

We cut the wardrobe to follow the slope, so the space under the eaves becomes somewhere for coats, suitcases and the Christmas decorations.

Alcoves

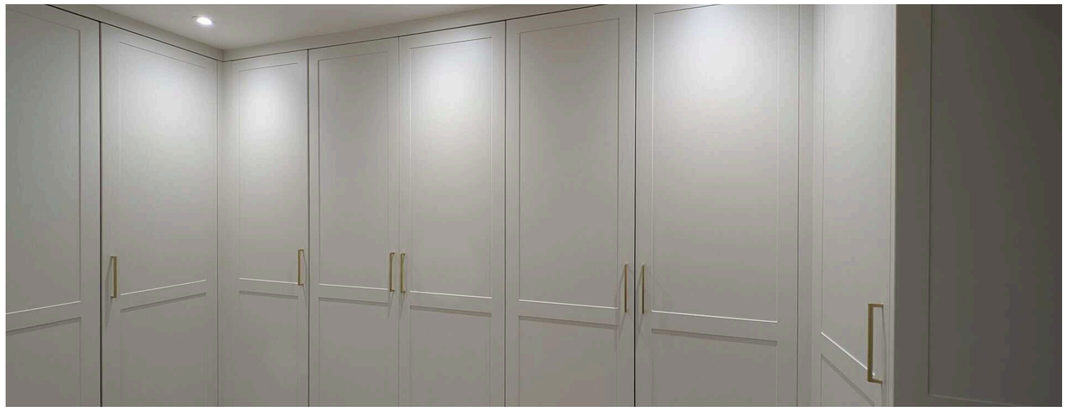

Either side of a chimney breast is the classic spot. Shelves above, hanging below, or drawers if you're short on space elsewhere.

The inside

Long hanging, double hanging, drawers, shoe shelves. We plan the inside around what you're actually putting in it, not the other way round.

The finish

Painted shaker, plain slab doors, glass or mirrors. Pick a colour to match the room or one that stands out.

"We wanted fitted wardrobes throughout the bedrooms of our home, and they turned our ideas into reality."

Mr M. Pashley, Ilkley

Dressing rooms

A room just for getting ready

A spare bedroom or box room makes a brilliant dressing room. Everything has its place, the doors close on the mess, and nobody's hunting for the other shoe at seven in the morning.

What usually goes in

A mix of hanging, open shelves and drawers, then a dressing table by the window where the light's best. Lighting inside the cupboards makes more difference than you'd think.

"We had an awkward space that we weren't sure they could work with, but they were innovative."

Media walls

Where the TV finally fits in

Slatted panelling around the TV, with an electric fire below

Telly, fire, books and all the boxes nobody wants to see

A media wall brings the TV, an electric fire and your storage together in one built-in piece. The cables disappear, the consoles get a cupboard, and the shelves finally have room for the books and photos.

Behind the TV

Slatted panelling, painted panels to match the room, or simply shelves either side. It's the part people notice first.

Lighting

A soft glow behind the TV and along the shelves makes it feel finished, and it's nicer to watch with than a big ceiling light.

Kitchens

Planned around how you cook

We design kitchens in traditional, contemporary and German styles, then plan them around the way you actually cook, eat and gather. Where the bins go matters just as much as the worktop.

More than cabinets

If the kitchen needs new wiring, plumbing, flooring or a fresh coat of paint, we can sort that too, so you're not juggling different trades.

How it works

What happens next

From the first visit to the day we tidy up and leave, here's how it goes.

1

We come to you

Our designer comes round, measures up and asks a few questions about how you use the room. It's free, usually takes about an hour, and there's no obligation.

2

We draw it up

You get 2D and 3D drawings and a detailed quote, with different ways to pay. Change as much as you like until it's right.

3

We make it

Most of our furniture is made to measure in our workshop in Ilkley.

4

We fit it

Our fitters install everything, check it over with you and tidy up before they go.

"From our showroom visit to the designing to the install, they were fantastic."

G. Stead, Otley

Colours and doors

The fun part

Once the layout's sorted, you choose the look. Here are a few of our favourite colours. Your designer can take you through the full range, or you can see the doors and finishes for real in our showroom.

In their words

"The bespoke furniture is perfect, the quality of the fitting is excellent, and the price was very reasonable and significantly less than alternative quotes."

Mr R. Falconer, Menston

"We've just updated our bedroom wardrobes at home and the team at Wharfedale have been fantastic."

Mrs H. Morrell, Harrogate

"Wharfedale Interiors has just sorted our bedroom wardrobes across three rooms in our home."

G. Stevens, Horsforth

"The install was extremely impressive, they even left the home cleaner than it was before!"

Mrs V. Woods, Wetherby
